

Disaster Mastermind

e-learning and Training

Every emergency is different.

Every agency has different roles.

Every community has different needs.

Training is the most effective way to ensure personnel participating in emergency operations have the knowledge and skills to undertake their roles and responsibilities and effectively and efficiently meet the needs of their communities.

Disaster Mastermind specialises in tailoring emergency management training to meet both Agency and community needs through the development of training programs that are designed to reflect the context in which your service operates and the emergencies you are likely to be involved in.

Disaster Mastermind can design training to provide your operational personnel with:

Understanding of operational roles and incident management structures;

Workplace risks and hazards in undertaking emergency operations;

Identifying and managing community and industry risks;

Emergency arrangements and regulatory obligations;

Planning and preparing for local and regional emergencies;

Engaging with communities and emergency management partners;

Navigating through government requirements and disaster assistance criteria.

Training includes e-learning and face to face delivery.
